YOUNG MAN KILLED AT LUCYVILLE

John Hainey, a young man 22 years of age, of California, was run down and killed by the "Bummer" Saturday night a short distance south of Lucyville. The young man did not die immediately but succumbed to his injuries while being taken to the Memorial Hospital at Monongahela, later.

Hainey was going home from an evening's visit in Lucyville, walking the distance. He failed to notice the approach of the train in time and was hit and thrown a number of feet. The injured man was picked up by some men of Lucyville who happened along at about the time, and placed on the train. He was taken to Brownsville and a physician called. After dressing the injuries as well as possible, he sent the man to the hospital at Monongahela. Hainey was dead when he reached the place. The body was taken to Bebout's undertaking room and this morning was shipped to the home in California. Identification was made by an emblem of the I. O. O. F. lodge, tattooed on his arm.

Charleroi And Braddock Play Tie Saturday

Charleroi and Braddock teams of the Monongahela Valley association football league played a tie game on the local grounds Saturday afternoon. Each team succeeded in getting one point, but the fast work of the goalkeepers prevented further scoring.

The game was a pretty one and full of interest. It abounded in nice plays and was clean from start to finish. J. Hynes from Charleroi secured the goal for the home team and McMenemy the one for the Braddock, eleven.

New Eagle won from Donora 1-0; Roscoe from Gallatin 3-2 and Dunlevy from McKeesport 3-1.

The lineup:
Charleroi—L. Baird.....G.....Denimer
H. Hynes.....F. B.....R. Howe
Mencer.....F. B.....C. Howe
Quinn.....H. B.....McAtee
Donley.....H. B.....McMilligan
Clark.....H. B.....White
Renard.....F.....Holloway
Campbell.....F.....Brooks
J. Hynes.....F.....Ferguson
Holden.....F.....McMenemy
O'Hara.....F.....McCaish.
Goals—J. Hynes, McMenemy.

Department Is Started At Plate Works

The polishing department of the Pittsburgh Plate glass works here was put in operation this morning. The factory is now running in all the departments and in a few days will be turning out an amount of glass daily similar to that which went from this plant each day before the close down last March. Last week the grinding department was put on, and is now working full time. When every thing is well regulated there will be about 600 men employed.

OIL FIELD WILL BE PERMANENT

West Middletown, Oct. 26.—The residents of West Middletown now feel that the oil field which was indicated by the small strike of a few weeks ago is going to be a permanent thing. The test well on the property of the Kessey Oil company which caused all the excitement has been shot and the prediction is that it will do from eight to 20 barrels a day. A good flow of gas was struck in the Gordon or hundred foot sand, where the larger supply of oil was also found. This gas, it is thought, will be sufficient to run the engines for drilling purposes.

Drilling will soon be started on the other location in this territory.

FORMER CHARLEROI MAN GETS NICE POSITION

The many friends of W. T. McCullough, principal of the Claysville public schools, will be very much pleased to learn that he has been elected principal of the Beaver Falls High school. He will accept the place. The salary is $1,200 a year.

Mr. McCullough was principal of the Claysville schools last year and was entering upon his second year at that place. He is a graduate of the California State Normal and the University of West Virginia. As a school man he holds a good record and since coming to Washington county has taken an active interest in school affairs. Mr. McCullough came to Claysville from New Castle, where he was for three years instructor in Latin and History in the City High school. He went to that place from Charleroi, where he taught for two terms.

The Beaver Falls High school has a four year course, with a faculty of seven teachers.

The Claysville schools opened today after being closed for four weeks on account of the scarlet fever epidemic.

CONVENTION OF MINERS TO BE HELD

A special convention of miners of the Pittsburgh district, the call for which was sent last week, will convene in Moorehead Hall, Pittsburgh, tomorrow at 10:00 a. m. Each local union will send one or more delegates according to their membership. Probably the most important question that will be settled is whether the international president has the right to send into the Pittsburgh district international organizers and put them to work in organized localities. Pres. Feehan and a majority of his official board have strongly resented this move, and Feehan has repeatedly notified the National officers that the services of these men were not required in the local district. It is asserted by friends of Mr. Feehan that the newcomers were kept on duty and are still at work under the direction of the Indianapolis office. It is expected that the convention will adopt a resolution asking that the international organizers be removed from the Pittsburgh district. It is probable that President Lewis will be asked to attend the convention and explain his position.

The official convention call sent out reads:

The requests received from the local unions are very indefinite, and few of them specify for what purpose a special convention is desired.

"However we realize that there are several questions of vital importance to our district organization that require consideration. For information of the membership, action will be taken on the following questions:

First—The question of signing the release from liability, now being enforced.

Second—The question of using the so called safety explosives, now being introduced.

Third—The question of the operators' refusal to comply with our agreement on deductions.

Fourth—The question of international organizers working in the organized portions of our district against the wishes of the district officials.

Fifth—Any other question that requires attention before the regular annual convention convenes.

It is expected that the convention will last all week.

BIG REPUBLICAN DEMONSTRATION AT MONESSEN SATURDAY NIGHT

A big Republican rally was held in Monessen Saturday night, and thousands were in that town. A parade was the feature. It started at 7 o'clock on Donner avenue, and continued over the principal streets of town. A large number of men were in line and the streets were crowded with people. After the parade there

ARE ARRANGING FOR A RUMMAGE SALE

Pray For More Rain.

Riversmen are still praying for a rise in the rivers that will permit of the shipment of the great quantities of coal that have been assembled in the harbors and the resumption of other traffic that has been delayed because of the long dry season. It will take a lot of rain to bring any rise in the rivers and the shippers are beginning to fear that when the water is high enough the ice will have come of further block traffic.

BAD FIRE RAGES AT HAZEL MINE

Caonsburg, Oct. 26.—Relays of fire fighters, as large as can be conveniently handled in the mine, are battling against a fire that has raged in the Hazel mine of the Pittsburgh-Buffalo Coal company since late yesterday forenoon, but is now believed to be under control.

The fire is the worst in the mining history of the big concern, while the Hazel mine is the largest owned by the Pittsburgh-Buffalo people.

Consternation was spread by the first report that an explosion which wiped out the lives of 200 miners had taken place. None was killed but several minor injuries have been sustained by the firefighters. The injured are:

H. J. Jones, of Cincinnati, O., part owner of the Pittsburgh-Buffalo Co., suffocated by smoke, brought from the mine unconscious. Was taken to home of D. G. Jones, Caonsburg.

John Mari, miner, leg broken by fall of hot slate.

Karl Komoro Russian miner, aged 22, leg broken by falling shed, taken to Washington hospital.

A fall of slate which caused the crossing of two electric wires was the origin of the flames. No life was imperilled as there was no explosion. The usual wild rumors, without foundation, were to the effect that hundreds of lives had been lost in Hazel mine.

The fire is raging about one mile from the opening of the mine. The working extends far into North Strabane township and the flames are now located almost directly under the Hill church. Out of an air shaft a mile from Caonsburg a stream of smoke from the mine fire can be seen ascending toward the sky.

Presence of fire in the mine was first discovered at 11:30 o'clock Saturday forenoon. Five hundred men were at work in the mine but all were got out safely.

Although the fire is admittedly the worst the Pittsburgh-Buffalo company has ever experienced an estimate of the probable loss will be made by the officials.

Progress of the firefighters as given out from various sources differs in some instances. The officials declare it is under control and should be extinguished by this evening, but the miners give out that the fire is gaining.

Good Speaker Yesterday At M. E. Church

The Methodist Episcopal church and Sunday School held a rally yesterday. Rev. Camden M. Coburn, professor Philosophy of Religion and of the English bible in Allegheny college was here and delivered a sermon in the morning at the church hour and entertained the people with a lecture last evening, on "The Bible, a Twentieth Century Book." At the Sunday school hour in the morning there was a special program arranged. Music was rendered by the orchestra, male quartet, and the primary department. Mrs. Mary L. Stewart, county secretary of the Sunday School association made an address.

At the preaching service, Dr. Coburn spoke on "The Wonderful Jesus." A full house greeted this popular speaker. His sermon was forceful and many good points were brought out. The lecture in the evening was perhaps the more interesting. Dr. Coburn is an original investigator and spoke from experience, in such a manner that his hearers felt the interest that he himself has in the subject of which he spoke.

In the Sunday school yesterday morning there was an attendance of 363. In a report of the church by Rev. Doak, it was learned that the sum of $6843 had been spent in the past year. There has been 121 members received.

CHARGED WITH ROBBING CAR

Washington, Oct. 26.—William Powell, Clot Wingett and Andy Lindley, three young men charged with robbing a merchandise car on the B. and O. railroad, were given hearings before Justice Henry Gantz Saturday and held for the November term of criminal court. Each were committed to jail in default of bail.

After the hearing before Justice Gantz was over Lindley was taken before Justice S. B. Hayes, Eighth ward, where he was held for court on a charge of robbery.

On October 12, the store of W. E. Boyce on the corner of Addison street and Hayes avenue, was robbed. Money amounting to $52 was taken from a leather sack. Steve was later arrested and confessed. He was sentenced to Huntingdon. In his confession he implicated Lindley.

The stolen goods were said to have been placed in Charleroi.

REVIVAL SERVICES ARE ENDED

The evangelistic meetings which Rev. E. E. Hendrick and Mr. A. L. Carter, of Nashville, Tenn., have been holding at the Washington Avenue Presbyterian church closed last night. Mr. Carter left Saturday for Washington where the next series of meetings are to be held, but Rev. Hendrick remained over and held three very successful meetings here yesterday. In all there were nine conversions Sunday, three morning and six in the evening. Yesterday morning twenty-eight persons joined the church and the most of these were baptized.

These meetings which the two evangelists have been holding have been most successful, there being during the time that they have been here, nearly one hundred conversions. The local church have tendered Rev. Hendrick and Mr. Carter an urgent invitation to return to this place next year to hold a series of meetings. They have proved very popular while here.

Yesterday morning Rev. Hendrick spoke on the theme "The Value of Church Membership." He said that every Christian should be a member of some church and that the church should be united as a body against all forces of evil.

In the afternoon the evangelist addressed the men on the subject, "The Sin of Saul." Great interest was shown in this meeting. In the evening Rev. Hendrick spoke on the topic, "The Blood of Christ." He told of how the blood of Christ washed away sins of the world, and of the salvation which was anyone for the believing on the Holy Ghost.

ROScoe GIRL SUFFERS FROM REVOLVER SHOT

Miss Myrtle Went of Roscoe yesterday accidentally shot herself with a revolver which she thought was not loaded. The shot took effect in the right side of the face and head but did not touch the brain. She was taken to the Mercy hospital, Pittsburgh, and it is thought she will recover. Miss Myrtle was with another girl of her own age. They secured a revolver and were investigating it when the accident occurred.

YOUNG MAN FATALLY INJURED BY ACCIDENTAL DISCHARGE OF GUN

Fredericktown, Oct. 26.—While standing upon a fence and using a shotgun as a support, Enoch Gossett, aged 21, a well known resident of this place, and a husband of eight months, was shot to death Saturday by the accidental discharge of his weapon.

Gossett and Frank Morton started out Saturday afternoon to hunt. After some time spent upon the hillside Gossett remarked to his companion that he saw a wagon enter his father's mine.

He climbed upon a nearby fence to get a better view of the mine's entrance and Morton continued his hunting. A few moments later Morton heard the report of a gun and saw his companion drop to the ground.

Upon reaching Gossett he found that the weapon had exploded while Gossett was leaning over the muzzle, the charge tearing through the young man's abdomen.

A cot was secured and the wounded man was brought to his home in this place. He lived until evening. He suffered terrible pain until his death.

The young man was a son of William Gossett. The family is among the oldest in this part of the county.

The funeral services were held at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Mr. Gossett has relatives in Charleroi whom he visited quite frequently.

Only a Week.

Just a week and one day until Election and things are as quiet as though it were a month yet until, the citizens of this great nation shall choose the one who will guide the country's destiny through the next four years. Whether it will be W.
H. Taft, the Republican nominee, who has perhaps more ability and is better fitted for the high position than any other man of the Nation, or William J. Bryan, one of the best orators this country has ever produced will then be decided by the voters.
The main argument for the election of the former man in his vast record of achievements. He has done things while his opponent talked of what he might do and what should be done.
William Taft did not seek the nomination for the presidential candidacy; it sought him. William Jennings Bryan has been on the job at various times for the past twelve years, but is still trying, with no record to boast of but his superior ability to talk.

The local congressional and legislative battles will prove of interest, although the real fight came off last spring. Bossism was downed by an overwhelming vote. The defeated candidate for the first named office has turned completely from the ranks which sent him to Congress for twelve successive years, has shown his true hand by turning entirely away from those whom he regarded as his friends as long as they were willing to bow submissive to his dictation and is now backing with his newspapers, formerly powers in this county, another ticket.
He is also fighting in all the spirit he can muster the entire legislative ticket of the Republican party. We admire a man who can take defeat gracefully, but we certainly do treat with contempt one who cannot.

to the conclusion that his campaign is hard on the professional politician, meaning, of course, the perennial candidate.

Rugby Team Goes To Ellsworth And Defeats Eleven

The Charleroi rugby team went to Ellsworth Saturday and defeated the eleven representing that place, 24-0.
The game was a clean one and many nice plays were made by both teams.
The home eleven was the heavier, but were much out played by the bunch from this place. The whole Charleroi team played well together and especially did the backfield do good work, gaining ground consistently.
Forward passes and onside kicks counted much for the visitors. For the Ellsworth team, Newcomer played a star game. The lineup:

Too Much For Him.

"How true that old saying is about a child asking questions that a man cannot answer," remarked Popleigh.
"What's the trouble now?" queried his friend Singleton.
"This morning," replied Popleigh.
"my little boy asked me why men were sent to congress, and I couldn't tell him."—Chicago News.

Another Way Out of It.

Nobody had ever had reason to accuse Abel Pond of being dishonest, but he was as sharp a man in a bargain as could be found in the county. When the building committee applied to him for a site for the new library he was ready to sell them a desirable lot, but not at their price.

"I couldn't feel to let it go under $800," he said, with the mild obstinacy that characterized all his dealings with his fellow men. "It wouldn't be right."

"You ought to be willing to contribute something for such an object," said the chairman of the committee. "If it's worth six hundred, why not let us have it for five hundred and call it you've given the other hundred?"
"M'm—no. I couldn't do that," said Mr. Pond, stroking his chin. "but I tell you what I will do. You give me seven hundred for it, and I'll make out a check for a hundred and hand it over to you, so's you can hand the list of subscriptions with a good round sum and kind of wake up folks to their duty."—Youth's Companion.

A Real Apology.

"When the late Joel Chandler Harris was an editor here among us," said an Advertiser, "I called on him one day and found him very willing to correct an error about me that crept into his columns.

"We talked about newspaper contradictions, public apologies and the like, and 'Uncle Remus' took down a scrapbook and read me an apology that was an apology indeed. It had happened, he said, in a Transvaal paper. 'I'll never forget it. I agreed with Mr. Harris that it was the finest specimen of the public apology and retraction extant.
It said:

"I, the undersigned, A. C. du Plessis, retract hereby everything I have said against the innocent Mr. G. P. Beaulieuhout, calling my self an infamous liar and striking my mouth with the exclamation:
'You must excuse me, for I know nothing about you.' I am sorry that I know nothing about you, the character of Mr. G. P.
Beaulieu-hout, I am myself, besides, a genuine liar of the first class."
—A. C. DU PLESSIS."

How Models Make Pictures.

The artist gazed in rapture on "The Kiss," his latest picture.
"Do you grasp," he said, "the pas-ionate grace of the girl's attitude, the warmth and the power wherewith her tense white arms draw the young man closer, ever closer? Well, I got that idea from my model, a shopgirl.

"But for my model's suggestion I'd have put the girl in a stiff, cold pose, and the picture would never have been the masterpiece it is. But my model pointed out to me the abandon wherewith a girl, whether of high or low station, gives herself up to a kiss' charm.
She illustrated the thing, aided by a male model, a young medical student. Yes, she made my picture."

"The fact is, models make, with their valuable hints and suggestions, lots of pictures. There's many a masterpiece whose merit is due to the splendid pose that the model originated for the principal figure."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Burma's Popular Sports.

A form of speculation very popular in Burma is bull racing. A certain native sportsman is the owner of one of these bulls, for which he has refused an offer of 10,000 rupees. It has won several races and is looked after and as carefully tended as a Derby favorite.
The owner values it at 25,000 rupees, and it is said, it brings him an annual income of from 12,000 to 15,000 rupees.
It is carefully guarded by four men lest it may be got at and "doctored."
Burmans also patronize boxing energetically, but the art can scarcely be practiced according to Queensberry rules, for we are told by a provincial reporter that he has observed that "even the best boxers strike out with their eyes tightly shut, and if they do hit each other it is more by chance than anything else."—Calcutta Statesman.

The Wrong Lady.

Some young idlers had been enjoying the fun of hailing passing shopgirls with rather doubtful compliments, and from some of the answers returned it was evident that not all of those addressed were taking things kindly.
Presently one of the older boys, seeing it was going too far, spoke up. "Look n' here now, fellows," he added, "youse might think youse is wise guys an' all that, but just keep on an' the wrong lady'll come along, an' she'll break yer face, see?"—Argonaut.

Washington, Pa., Oct. 26.—As the result of eating poke root, Hazel French, the 2-year-old daughter of Stanton French, of East Waynesburg, died today. On Saturday the child, with companions, was playing house and pretending to cook. The poke root was served as radishes. The children became violently ill, but all were restored except Hazel.

Canonsburg, Oct. 25.—Superintendent Johnson Bowers of the North Strabane Water company stated Saturday that there is from three and one-half to four feet of water in the company's reservoir, a greater amount than has been on hand for four weeks.
The Linden creek, from which the water is pumped, is again running, a fair stream having flowed Friday, and was increased by the rain of Saturday morning. The pumps at the water plant were operated for three hours and 40 minutes Friday, the first time since early in the week. The pumps have a capacity of two and a quarter million gallons every 24 hours.

Washington, Oct. 25.—N. B.
Naber, who is in jail charged with forgery, was taken before Justice E.
N. Dunlap this morning to answer similar charges made by W. S. Guttery, of Franklin street, and Detective Cummins. The latter charges the defendant, on information received, with forging the name of J.
Kaufman to a check drawn on the National Bank, of Claysville. The accused said that he wanted a hearing on both charges, and Justice Dunlap set the time for an investigation next Monday at the time that the other charges are to be inquired into.

STATE WILL BE FORCED TO ACTION

That the State of Pennsylvania will be forced to take steps to suppress the annual flood devastation by artificial methods of controlling the flow of the rivers and streams, in addition to the natural process of reforestation, is the opinion of the State waters supply commission after investigations extending over the entire period since its organization in 1905.

The annual report of the commission, issued Saturday, deals not only with the matter of floods, but shows the great loss in immediate destruction of property and the disastrous waste of water, especially in the vicinity of Pittsburgh. It also shows what the commission has accomplished in stopping the gobbling of water rights for private speculation of hold-up purposes, and also checking the indiscriminate obstruction of water courses by dams and fills.
The report highly commends the work of reforestation now going on throughout Pennsylvania, and recommends that the matter of flood control be placed in the hands of a central body, with authority to put into operation a systematic campaign for the conservation of the water supplies.

Three Girls and a Bungalow.

By C. B. LEWIS.

Copyrighted, 1908, by Associated Literary Press.

The three girls—Florence, Molly and Edith—began talking up that bungalow in January, and long enough before the first April shower they had all their plans perfected. It was to be a unique and romantic summer outing. Florence's father owned a farm on the bay. A frame house had been erected for the tenant, and an old log house stood vacant in a romantic spot. It was, as Florence informed her two girl chums, a dear, lovely, sweet, just-too-nice-for-anything old log house. It would make such a bungalow as could not be found for twenty miles up and down the coast.

On the hill forty rods back of the log house was the new dwelling, occupied by Farmer Jones, his good, fat wife and his lean son Jacob. The girls would take their meals there and have no cooking or dishwashing to do. When they wanted to roast clams and potatoes they could build a fire on the shore.

Just three girls and no crowds, no dressing for dinner, no keeping the hair curled; just three girls, boating, fishing and swinging in their hammocks and cantering over the dewy grass in the morning; no cards, no bouquets, no flirtations; the fat Mrs. Jones for chaperon, the lean Jacob to run errands, old Jones to drive into the village once a week after kerosene and baking powder and their mail—the very thought of it produced thrills.

Well, it all came out. They went down early in the season for two months. Word had been sent to Jones that they wished to rent it and that he must not remove any of the romance. He obeyed orders. He built three rude bunks, put in an old table and three chairs and furnished a lamp. There were a few pieces of glass in the windows, and he did not add to the number; there were a few holes in the roof, and he did not cover them; there was half an acre of pigwoods around the house, and he did not mow them down. Mr. Jones was romantic himself and appreciated the sentiment in others.

The outing started off with "How charming!" "How ideal!" and "How very romantic!" Then the three girls got their heads together and took a solemn vow. It was that they would remain until the very last day of August and that in the interval they would not encourage any young man to address them—any young man except Jacob, from whom they learned that young men came that way at intervals to fish in the bay.

The bungalow was a success from the start. On the first night it rained, and the water dripped down through a dozen leaks; on the second night a cow came and put her head through one of the windows to see what strange cattle had arrived and taken possession; on the third an owl alighted on the roof-tree and uttered three whoops, and they were followed by three exclamations of "Murder!" "Police!" and "Help!"

On the fourth day Jacob appeared with a pitcher of buttermilk and some startling news. He had discovered a young man had gone into camp a short quarter of a mile away. He had with him a tent, a boat, plenty of provisions and cooking utensils. It looked as if he intended to stay right there all summer. Jacob had entered the young man's camp and asked him to please move two miles farther up or down. The young man had stared at him and kept on reading a volume of poetry. The news created intense excitement at once. An indignation meeting was at once called, and it was resolved "that the young man has got to go and that we wait upon him in a body and tell him so."

Jacob bravely offered his help, but it was declined. "The body" marched straight for the enemy's camp, each face wearing a look of determination. The enemy was sitting down smoking a pipe, but on their arrival he rose up and doffed his cap and stood at respectful attention. Miss Florence was spokeswoman, and after a slight shiver she announced:

"Sir, this is my father's property, and you are a trespasser. I have to request that you kindly go away."

"But it happens to be my property," replied the stranger, with a smile. "Your father's farm ends at the creek there."

"But—but we are three girls, sir." The young man bowed to the three in turn.

"And we have a bungalow and do not wish to be disturbed."

"I shall take great pleasure in not disturbing you."

"But can't you understand, sir, that we are on our vacation and don't want any men around?"

"Sorry, young ladies—extremely sorry—but I am on my vacation and don't want any females around. I will agree to keep my distance if you will keep yours. I have camped here for the past three years on account of this spring."

The delegation walked back to the bungalow without a word. Then the meeting was called to order again, and Miss Florence asked what further steps were deemed necessary to rid themselves of the presence of the impudent intruder.

"Why, if it's his land he has a right there, hasn't he?" ingenuously queried Molly.

"And I didn't expect to see such a good looking young man," sighed Edith. "Are you girls going to turn traitor?" demanded the chairman in indignant tones.

"He may be good looking, and he may be on his own land, but he's no gentleman. A gentleman would have consented to move his camp even ten miles if kindly requested by three girls who were camping by themselves. If he thinks we are going away instead he'll find himself very much mistaken. We must sub him on every possible occasion."

When Farmer Jones was appealed to he said he guessed the young man was within his rights. When young Jacob was told the result of the call at his camp he offered to go over and chuck the intruder into the bay and hold him there, but wiser counsel prevailed, and the bungalow once more settled down to peace and romance. Not for long, however.

After breakfast two mornings later Florence went down to the shore for a row to find the boat missing. The tide had floated it off during the night. As she stood there wondering about the boat and the intruder the young man of the camp came rowing up in his own boat and towing the missing craft. He leaped ashore, raised his cap and drew the skiff upon the sands. Then he entered his own craft without a word and rowed away.

At dinner that evening Mrs. Jones proudly placed a dish of fried hushpuppies on the table. The girls welcomed it with little screams of delight. Miss Florence had half finished her dinner when she remembered having seen the intruder with a gun on his shoulder in the edge of the woods that afternoon. She suddenly lost her appetite and whispered to the girl on either hand.

"You may bow your neck to the tyrant's yoke if you will, but as for me—never!"

"And such eyes and teeth!" At the breakfast next morning there was excellent fish on the table—fish caught that morning, as Mrs. Jones proudly announced. The girls "pitched in," but after five minutes Miss Florence refused further fish. It came to her like a flash that the impudent intruder must have furnished the supply. She looked at her chums in cold disgust, but Miss Molly clasped her hands and rolled her eyes.

"Oh, I knew he must be a gentleman the first moment I set eyes on him."

"And how terrible it would have been had we driven him away from here," added Edith.

They were traitors to the cause, but their conduct only made Florence the sterner in her determination. Fate bows when to find her own business and when to interfere with that of others. In this case she held off for a couple of weeks. Miss Florence went out crabbing by herself. She planned to be herself so as to snub the intruder if he came within ten rods of her.

It is useless to speculate on how a girl and a boat got upset on bay, lake or river. They do, and that's all there is about it. Florence was after the biggest crab of the century when she suddenly found herself sinking down to a watery grave. She didn't know when the intruder came rushing down in his skiff and leaped overboard to her rescue. She didn't know when she was carried ashore and up to the Joneses' house. When she did recover she heard sobs and sighs all around her, and as she tried to sit up she heard Molly exclaim:

"And if she doesn't marry him she's an ungrateful wretch!" added Edith. "Why, we've known for two whole days that he was a son of Senator Blake and one of the nicest young men in the world!"

Job Still Open.

The proprietor of a London restaurant advertised for a cook. The first to apply for the berth appeared to be in every way suitable. But before engaging him the restaurant keeper inquired if he could give him a tip for the 2300 race.

The cook's eyes brightened. He whispered a "dead cert." and mentioned that he had 5 shillings on the horse himself. That was enough. The proprietor gave him a lecture on the evils of betting and showed him the door. As he went out he saw another man about to enter.

"Are you going to apply for the job?" he asked. "Well, if you are asked if you know anything about racing, say you can't tell a Derby winner from a coster's donkey."

The man took the advice, was engaged and commenced his duties. Presently the proprietor rushed to the speaking tube and yelled to the new cook:

"Call's head one."

Instantly the reply came: "Did he, by George? What was second and third?"

The Chinese Waiter.

The chief glory of an average Chinese inn is the waiter. This indispensable functionary is the guardian of all your interests for the time being, and when you are not looking he dives into secrets and matters of your own that seem to amuse and enlighten him to your inconvenience and annoyance. Like his confreres in other and more enlightened countries, he hardly ever separates himself from the inevitable napkin, but his badge of waitership is a very practical article with him. With it in summer he mops his damp brow or bare shoulders, while in winter, wrapped about his head, it protects him from rain and wind. The Chinese waiter's napkin is put to all kinds of uses besides those just mentioned. It is used as a dishcloth, a mop with which to wipe the floor, a cloth for cleaning and wiping down tables and a duster. But Chinese landlords are very reasonable in their charges, which in a measure compensate for the unpleasantness of living in their inns.

OCEAN LINER'S CARGO.

Four Hundred Husky Longshoremen to Load One Ship.

Down on the wharf the rush was at its height. Under the sputtering bluish arc lights, amid endless clang and rumble, the produce of America came in. From the prairies, the mines and the mills, from the forests, the cotton plantations, tobacco fields, orchards and vineyards, from the oil fields and meat packing houses, from the grimy factories, large and small, ponderous engines of steel, harvesters, reapers, automobiles, bars of silver and yellow bricks of gold, bales of cotton and wool and hides and tobacco, meats, barrels of flour and boxes of fruit, hoghead of oil and casks of wine—thousands of things and machines to make things—piled up on the wharf by the acre. And still all night the teams clattered in and the tugs pulled up with the barges, and from hundreds of miles away the trains were rushing hither, bringing more boxes and barrels and bags to be packed in at the last moment.

In gangs at every hatchway the 400 men were trundling, heaving, straining, a rough crowd, cursing and joking at the hoarse shouts of the foremen, while from the darkness outside heavy black rope nets dropped down to gather gigantic handfuls of cargo, swing them back up to the deck of the ship and then down into her hold. So all through the night and right up to the hour of sailing the rush went on, for the great ocean liner's work is worth hundreds of thousands of dollars a month. And the ship must sail on time.—Everybody's.

HUNTING WILD HORSES.

How Brumbies in New South Wales Are Trapped and Broken.

Hunting "brumbies," as the wild horses are called there, is a favorite sport in New South Wales. Districts like the Clarence and Stephens and Manning river watersheds are still the home of numerous droves of brumbies, and hunting them is declared to be a very exhilarating pastime. The first step taken is to stake out a corral and make all secure except a narrow entrance, which can subsequently be gated. On either side of the entrance and projecting from it funnelwise a "booby fence" is prepared.

To the simple minded brumby it presumably looks like a stockade, and pieces of fluttering cotton make it look impregnable. When this is ready, the young bloods, well mounted, gallop out and round up the wild horses, driving them with shouts and much loud snapping of stock whips toward the mouth of the funnel.

In a group of brumbies there is always a leader, and when once the hunters have got the leader heading for the corral they are pretty certain of the rest of the drove. The fluttering cotton tags of the sham fence are sufficient to deter the brumbies from breaking through the flimsy barriers, and in less time than it takes to tell the wild horses are safely corralled and the big gate shut on them.

Then they are left for four and twenty hours without food and water to reflect on the situation, and after that they can be broken in without much difficulty.—London Standard.

Hearn as a Creative Artist.

Hearn's creative faculty began where creation is commonly held to end, with the material given. Of the creative gift in the sense in which the phrase is applied to the poet he had not a particle. He was not a maker, but a shaper. Dr. Gould puts the matter bluntly when he says, "He had no original thing to say, for he was entirely without creative power and had always to borrow theme and plot." And again: "Clearly and patently it was a mind without creative ability, spring or the desire for it. It was a mind improverment by inheritance and by education, by necessity and by training, by poverty internal and external." The truth in these words becomes evident when one recalls the failure as fiction of every one of Hearn's attempts in this field and the fact that his greatest successes were won in reclothing the ideas of other men.—Forum.

Very Clever.

They tell a story in London of a certain peer who had never before shown the slightest interest in horse racing that he surprised a young man of his acquaintance by asking him apropos of nothing which horse had won the Derby. The young man told him. "That was very clever of him," replied the peer. "Was it the first time he tried it?" The young man stared, but said "Yes." "Then I call it very clever of him," replied the noble but incomplete sportsman, "to win the Derby the first time he tried for it."

Messant For the Lender.

"There," said Dubley, adding up the column of figures, "a total of $632. I guess that's all. Oh, no; there's $30 I forgot! Gee! I wish somebody would lend me $682. Can you do it old man?"

"What for?" demanded Markley.

"Why, I want to get out of debt,"—Philadelphia Press.

A Holdup.

De Roads—Mister, I found the dog your wife is advertisin' a reward on $5 fer. Mr. Jaw—You did, eh? De Roads—Yes, and if you don't gimme $10 I'll take it back to her. See?—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Made His Mark.

"Well, young Dr. Slicer has made his mark already, hasn't he?" "Yes; did it on his first case." "Great Scott! What did he do?" "Vaccinated him!"

THE CAUSE OF COLDS

Good Advice Regarding The Prevention Of Coughs
And Colds.

If people would only properly fortify and strengthen their system, about 98 per cent of coughs, colds and pneumonia might be avoided. These troubles are simply the result of weakness, which produces a catarrhal condition of the mucous membrane, which is an internal skin of the body. When this skin is weakened, it becomes infected with germs which are carried through the system by the blood. These parasites attack and break these delicate tissues and set up a soreness which produce what is in reality an external croup.

We have a remedy which we honestly believe infallible and insurpassable for the prevention and cure of coughs, colds and all catarrhal conditions. It is the prescription of a famous physician, who has an enviable reputation of 30 years of cures gained through the use of this medicine. We promise to either effect a cure in every case or make no charge for the medicine. We urge everybody in Charleroi who has need of such a medicine to try Rexall Mucu-Tone.

It stands to reason that we could not afford to make this statement and give our own personal guarantee to this remedy if we were not absolutely positive that we could substantiate our claim in every particular, and we see no reason why anyone should hesitate to accept our offer and try it. We have two sizes of Rexall Mucu-Tone. Prices 50c and $1.00. Sometimes a 50c bottle is sufficient for a cure. As a general thing, the most chronic case is secured with an average of three large bottles. Remember, the medicine will cost you nothing if you are not satisfied in every particular. John W. Millinery

Our Trimmed Hat Department is showing an immense line of new and stylish hats that you simply must see. There's an awful change in the style, but we want you to try a few of these large shapes on your head—and we are certain that you will be pleased with the effect. There's a lot of snappy style to these new hats. We make in our workroom hats for ladies, misses and children, carefully and thoroughly made and reasonably priced.

Cloaks

The Cloak and Suit Department is filled to the overflowing point. We are showing a grand line of suits at $16.50, $18.00, $20.00, $25.00 to $35.00. All alterations made free of charge and we make them fit. Long black coats for women. Plain cloth and fancy mixtures for misses and a large variety for children and babies. Moderately priced. See these during our special sale.

Magic 9s ALL OVER THE STORE—You wouldn't think we could find so many things to sell at 9 cents. Nine cents isn't the regular price of any of these articles, though most of them are 15c and 12c goods—lots of them 18c and 20c. We have reduced them to 9 cents just for this sale. The figure 9 has always been considered lucky, and it is such a small price to pay for most anything that we decided to tack it to all sorts of things you are apt to want right now. The 9s are scattered broadcast—you will find them everywhere perched jauntily on goods that never expected to greet you for much less than twice nine. Yes, come and see what 9 cents will do.

A Hold up!
There are "hold ups" in all lines of business.

"Tricks in all trades but ours" won't fit the Shoe business.

Many Manufacturers try to hold up the trade by using poor stock in their Shoes and by making them in the cheapest manner possible, and selling them for all they can get for them.

A hold up, surely.

Again, many dealers hold up their trade by offering "job lots," "bargain Shoes," "$5.00 Shoes for 98c," etc.

Another form of hold up.

YOUNG MAN KILLED AT LUCYVILLE

John Hainey, a young man 22 years of age, of California, was run down and killed by the "Rummer" Saturday night a short distance south of Lucyville. The young man did not die immediately but succumbed to his injuries while being taken to the Memorial Hospital at Monongahela.

Hainey was going home from an evening's visit in Lucyville, walking the distance. He failed to notice the approach of the train in time and was hit and thrown a number of feet. The injured man was picked up by some men of Lucyville who happened along at about the time, and placed on the train. He was taken to Brownsville and a physician called. After dressing the injuries as well as possible, he sent the man to the hospital at Monongahela. Hainey was dead when he reached the place. The body was taken to Bebout's undertaking room and this morning was shipped to the home in California. Identification was made by an emblem of the I. O. O. F. lodge, tattooed on his arm.

Charleroi and Braddock teams of the Monongahela Valley association football league played a tie game on the local grounds Saturday afternoon. Each team succeeded in getting one point, but the fast work of the goal keeper prevented further scoring.

The game was a pretty one and full of interest. It abounded in nice plays and was clear from start to finish. J. Hynes for Charleroi secured the goal for the home team and McMenemy the one for the Braddock eleven.

New Eagle won from Donora 1-0; Roscoe from Gallatin, 3-2 and Dunlevy from McKeesport 3-1.

The lineup:
Charleroi—1. Baird.....G. Denner
H. Hynes.....F. B. R. Howe
Mencer.....F. B. C. Howe
Quinn.....H. B. McAtee
Donley.....H. B. McMilligan
Clark.....H. B. White
Renard.....F. Holloway
Campbell.....F. Brooks
J. Hynes.....F. Ferguson
Holden.....F. McMenemy
O'Hara.....F. McCain.
Goals—J. Hynes, McMenemy.

Department Is Started At Plate Works

The polishing department of the Pittsburgh Plate glass works here was put in operation this morning. The factory is now running in all the departments and in a few days will be turning out an amount of glass daily similar to that which went from this plant each day before the close down last March. Last week the grinding department was put on, and is now working full time. When every thing is in full operation there will be about 600 men employed.

OIL FIELD WILL BE PERMANENT

West Middletown, Oct. 25.—The residents of West Middletown now feel that the oil field which was indicated by the small strike of a few weeks ago is going to be a permanent thing. The test well on the property of the Kessey Oil company which caused all the excitement has been shot and the prediction is that it will do from eight to 20 barrels a day. A good flow of gas was struck in the Gordon or hundred foot sand, where the larger supply of oil was also found. This gas, it is thought, will be sufficient to run the engines for drilling purposes.

Drilling will soon be started on the other location in this territory.

FORMER CHARLEROI MAN GETS NICE POSITION

The many friends of W. T. McCullough, principal of the Claysville public schools, will be very much pleased to learn that he has been elected principal of the Beaver Falls High school. He will accept the place. The salary is $1,200 a year.

Mr. McCullough was principal of the Claysville schools last year and was entering upon his second year at that place. He is a graduate of the California State Normal and the University of West Virginia. As a school man he holds a good record and since coming to Washington county has taken an active interest in school affairs. Mr. McCullough came to Claysville from New Castle, where he was for three years instructor in Latin and History in the City High school. He went to that place from Charleroi, where he taught for two terms.

The Beaver Falls High school has a four year course, with a faculty of seven teachers.

The Claysville schools opened today after being closed for four weeks on account of the scarlet fever epidemic.

CONVENTION OF MINERS TO BE HELD

A special convention of miners of the Pittsburgh district, the call for which was sent last week, will convene in Moorehead Hall, Pittsburgh, tomorrow at 10:30 a. m. Each local union will send one or more delegates according to their membership.

Probably the most important question that will be settled is whether the international president has the right to send into the Pittsburgh district international organizers and put them to work in organized localities. Pres. Feehan and a majority of his official board have strongly resented this move, and Feehan has repeatedly notified the National Officers that the services of these men were not required in the local district. It is asserted by friends of Mr. Feehan that the newcomers were kept on duty and are still at work under the direction of the Indianapolis office. It is expected that the convention will adopt a resolution asking that the international organizers be removed from the Pittsburgh district. It is probable that President Lewis will be asked to attend the convention and explain his position.

The official convention call sent out reads:

The request received from the local unions are very indefinite and few of them specify for what purpose a special convention is desired.

However we realize that there are several questions of vital importance to our district organization that require consideration. For information of the membership, action will be taken on the following questions:

First—The question of signing the release from liability, now being enforced.

Second—The question of using the so called safety explosives, now being introduced.

Third—The question of the operators' refusal to comply with our agreement on deductions.

Fourth—The question of international organizers working in the organized portions of our district against the wishes of the district officials.

Fifth—Any other question that requires attention before the regular annual convention convenes.

It is expected that the convention will last all week.

BAD FIRE RAGES AT HAZEL MINE

Canonsburg, Oct. 26.—Relays of fire fighters, as large as can be conveniently handled in the mine, are battling against a fire that has raged in the Hazel mine of the Pittsburgh-Buffalo Coal company since late yesterday forenoon, but is now believed to be under control.

The fire is the worst in the mining history of the big concern, while the Hazel mine is the largest owned by the Pittsburgh-Buffalo people.

Consternation was spread by the first report that an explosion which wiped out the lives of 200 miners had taken place. None was killed but several minor injuries have been sustained by the firefighters. The injured are:

H. J. Jones, of Cincinnati, O., part owner of the Pittsburgh-Buffalo Co., suffocated by smoke, brought from the mine unconscious. Was taken to home of D. G. Jones, Canonsburg.

John Mari, miner, leg broken by fall of hot slate.

Karl Komoro, Russian miner, aged 22, leg broken by falling shed, taken to Washington hospital.

A fall of slate which caused the crossing of two electric wires was the origin of the flames. No life was imperilled as there was no explosion.

The usual wild rumors, without foundation, were to the effect that hundreds of lives had been lost in Hazel mine.

The fire is raging about one mile from the opening of the mine. The working extends far into North Strabane township and the flames are now located almost directly under the Hill church. Out of an air shaft a mile from Canonsburg a stream of smoke from the mine fire can be seen ascending skyward.

Presence of fire in the mine was first discovered at 11:30 o'clock Saturday forenoon. Five hundred men were at work in the mine but all were got out safely.

Although the fire is admittedly the worst the Pittsburgh-Buffalo company has ever experienced an estimate of the probable loss will be made by the officials.

Progress of the firefighters as given out from various sources differs in some instances. The officials declare it is under control and should be extinguished by this evening, but the miners give out that the fire is gaining.

Good Speaker Yesterday At M. E. Church

The Methodist Episcopal church and Sunday School held a rally yesterday. Rev. Camden M. Coburn, professor Philosophy of Religion and of the English bible in Allegheny college was here and delivered a sermon in the morning at the church bourse and entertained the people with a lecture last evening, on "The Bible, a Twentieth Century Book." At the Sunday school hour in the morning there was a special program arranged. Music was rendered by the orchestra, male quartet, and the primary department. Mrs. Mary L. Stewart, county secretary of the Sunday School association made an address.

At the preaching service, Dr. Coburn spoke on "The Wonderful Jesus." A full house greeted this popular speaker. His sermon was forceful and many good points were brought out. The lecture in the evening was perhaps the more interesting. Dr. Coburn is an original investigator and spoke from experience, in such a manner that his hearers felt the interest that he himself has in the subject of which he spoke.

In the Sunday school yesterday morning there was an attendance of 363. In a report of the church by Rev. Doak, it was learned that the sum of $6845 had been spent in the past year. There has been 121 members received.

CHARGED WITH ROBBING CAR

Washington, Oct. 26.—William Powell, Clad Wingett and Andy Lindley, three young men charged with robbing a merchandise car on the B. and O. railroad, were given hearings before Justice Henry Gantz Saturday and held for the November term of criminal court. Each were committed to jail in default of bail.

After the hearing before Justice Gantz was over Lindley was taken before Justice S. B. Hayes, Eighth ward, where he was held for court on a charge of robbery.

On October 12, the store of W. E. Boyce on the corner of Addison street and Hayes avenue, was robbed. Money amounting to $32 was taken from a leather sack. Steve was later arrested and confessed. He was sentenced to Huntington. In his confession he implicated Lindley.

The stolen goods were said to have been placed in Charleroi.

The evangelistic meetings which Rev. E. E. Hendrick and Mr. A. L. Carter, of Nashville, Tenn., have been holding at the Washington Avenue Presbyterian church closed last night. Mr. Carter left Saturday for Washington where the next series of meetings are to be held, but Rev. Hendrick remained over and held three very successful meetings here yesterday. In all there were nine conversions Sunday, three morning and six in the evening. Yesterday morning twenty-eight persons joined the church and the most of these were baptized.

These meetings which the two evangelists have been holding have been most successful, there being during the time that they have been here, nearly one hundred conversions. The local church have tendered Rev. Hendrick and Mr. Carter an urgent invitation to return to this place next year to hold a series of meetings. They have proved very popular while here.

Yesterday morning Rev. Hendrick spoke on the theme "The Value of Church Membership." He said that every Christian should be a member of some church and that the church should be united as a body against all forces of evil.

In the afternoon the evangelist addressed the men on the subject, "The Sin of Soul." Great interest was shown in this meeting. In the evening Rev. Hendrick spoke on the topic, "The Blood of Christ." He told of how the blood of Christ washed away sins of the world, and of the salvation which was anyone for the believing on the Holy Ghost.

ROScoe GIRL SUFFERS FROM REVOLVER SHOT

Miss Myrtle Went of Roscoe yesterday accidentally shot herself with a revolver which she thought was not loaded. The shot took effect in the right side of the face and head but did not touch the brain. She was taken to the Mercy hospital, Pittsburgh, and it is thought she will recover. Miss Myrtle was with another girl of her own age. They secured a revolver and were investigating it when the accident occurred.

DETECTIVE MCLEARY ROUNDS UP MEN CHARGED WITH BURGLARY

Monongahela, Pa., October 26.—County Detective McCleary is believed to have landed a couple of dangerous thugs and holdup men when he arrested Alex. Lexison and Charles Thomas Saturday afternoon. The desperate character of the men is manifested by the fact that the detective was forced to overpower Thomas, who had secured a gun and was endeavoring to barricade himself in a room of the house where he was overtaken.

The arrest took place at Thomas' home, where the two men have been staying recently. Thomas himself is reputed as a bad man, while Lexison is said to have served two terms at Riverside.

Although the direct charge against the pair is larceny it is the detective's belief that the men can be connected with the numerous holdups and robberies committed in the Beallsville region recently. Thomas and his partner were charged with stealing from Thomas' mother-in-law, Mrs. Laughlin, taking such things as sheep, chickens, potatoes and corn.

BIG REPUBLICAN DEMONSTRATION AT MONESSEN SATURDAY NIGHT

A big Republican rally was held in Monessen Saturday night, and thousands were in that town. A parade was the feature. It started at 7 o'clock on Donner avenue, and continued over the principal streets of town. A large number of men were in line and the streets were crowded with people. After the parade there was speaking at the Opera House. Congressman A. J. Barchfield, of the 26th district, Jesse E. B. Cunningham, assistant attorney general at Harrisburg, William T. Don, Jr., of Greensburg, Phil K. Staner, Dr. L. C. Thomas, and Hon. E. E. Robbins made the address of the evening. E. M. Blaney, of Pittsburgh rendered several campaign songs.

ARE ARRANGING FOR A RUMMAGE SALE

The ladies of the First Presbyterian church are arranging to hold a rummage sale Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of this week at 423 Fal-lowfield avenue in the store room formerly occupied by McDermott's Butter and Egg store. The ladies will receive articles on the preceding day.

Pray For More Rain.

Rivermen are still praying for a rise in the rivers that will permit of the shipment of the great quantities of coal that have been assembled in the harbors and the resumption of other traffic that has been delayed because of the long dry season. It will take a lot of rain to bring any rise in the rivers and the water is now so low that the water is high enough the ice will have come of further block traffic.

RAID MADE ON CRAPSHOOTERS

A raid was made on crapshooters Saturday by the police. Mike Chesko, Fred Pinfold, and John Selley were caught and at a hearing were fined each $6.00 and costs, which all paid except one. Charles Pittskey and Joseph Meil were arrested Saturday for fighting. They have a hearing tonight.

YOUNG MAN FATALLY INJURED BY ACCIDENTAL DISCHARGE OF GUN

Fredericktown, Oct. 26.—While standing upon a fence and using a shotgun as a support, Enoch Gossett, aged 21, a well known resident of this place, and a husband of eight months, was shot to death Saturday by the accidental discharge of his weapon.

Gossett and Frank Morton started out Saturday afternoon to hunt. After some time spent upon the hillside Gossett remarked to his companion that he saw a wagon enter his father's mine.

He climbed upon a nearby fence to get a better view of the mine's entrance and Morton continued his hunting. A few moments later Morton heard the report of a gun and saw his companion drop to the ground.

Upon reaching Gossett he found that the weapon had exploded while Gossett was leaning over the muzzle, the charge tearing through the young man's abdomen.

A cot was secured and the wounded man was brought to his home in this place. He lived until evening. He suffered terrible pain until his death.

The young man was a son of William Gossett. The family is among the oldest in this part of the county.

The funeral services were held at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Mr. Gossett has relatives in Charleroi whom he visited quite frequently.

Only a Week.

Just a week and one day until Election and things are as quiet as though it were a month yet until the citizens of this great nation shall choose the one who will guide the country's destiny through the next four years. Whether it will be W. H. Taft, the Republican nominee, who has perhaps more ability and is better fitted for the high position than any other man of the Nation, or William J. Bryan, one of the best orators this country has ever produced will then be decided by the voters. The main argument for the election of the former man in his vast record of achievements. He has done things while his opponent talked of what he might do and what should be done. William Taft did not seek the nomination for the presidential candidacy; it sought him. William Jennings Bryan has been on the job at various times for the past twelve years, but is still trying, with no record to boast of but his superior ability to talk.

The local congressional and legislative battles will prove of interest, although the real fight came off last spring. Bossism was downed by an overwhelming vote. The defeated candidate for the first named office has turned completely from the ranks which sent him to Congress for twelve successive years, has shown his true hand by turning entirely away from those whom he regarded as his friends as long as they were willing to bow submissive to his dictation and is now backing with his newspapers, formerly powers in this county, another ticket. He is also fighting in all the spirit he can muster the entire legislative ticket of the Republican party. We admire a man who can take defeat gracefully, but we certainly do treat with contempt one who cannot.

Still there is hope of further liveliness in the campaign, presented in the allegation that Hearst has some more dynamite in reserve, to which the previously read documents were little more than firecrackers.

Rugby Team Goes To Ellsworth And Defeats Eleven

The Charleroi rugby team went to Ellsworth Saturday and defeated the eleven representing that place, 24-0. The game was a clean one and many nice plays were made by both teams. The home eleven was the heavier but were much out played by the bunch from this place. The whole Charleroi team played well together and especially did the backfield do good work, gaining ground consistently. Forward passes and onside kicks counted much for the visitors. For the Ellsworth team, Newcomer played a star game. The lineup:

Too Much For Him.

"How true that old saying is about a child asking questions that a man cannot answer," remarked a father.

"What's the trouble now?" queried his friend Singleton.

"This morning," replied Popleigh, "my little boy asked me why men were sent to congress, and I couldn't tell him."—Chicago News.

Another Way Out of It

Nobody had ever had reason to accuse Abel Pond of being dishonest, but he was as sharp a man in a bargain as could be found in the county. When the building committee applied to him for a site for the new library he was ready to sell them a desirable lot, but not at their price.

"I couldn't feel to let it go under $5000," he said, with the mild obstinacy that characterized all his dealings with his fellow men. "It wouldn't be right."

"You ought to be willing to contribute something for such an object," said the chairman of the committee. "If it's worth six hundred, why not let us have it for five hundred and call it you've given the other hundred?"

"I'm no. I couldn't do that," said Mr. Pond, stroking his chin. "but I tell you what I will do. You give me seven hundred for it, and I'll make out a check for a hundred and hand it over to you, so's you can head the list of subscriptions with a good round sum and kind of wake up folks to their duty."—Youth's Companion.

A Real Apology.

"When the late Joel Chandler Harris was an editor here among us," said an Altonian, "I called on him one day and found him very willing to correct an error about me that crept into his columns.

"We talked about newspaper contradictions, public apologies and the like, and 'Cable Remus' took down a scrapbook and read me an apology that was an apology indeed. It had happened, he said, in a Transvaal paper. I'll never forget it. I agreed with Mr. Harris that it was the finest specimen of the public apology and retraction extant. It said:

"I, the undersigned, A. C. du Plessis, regret heretofore everything I have said against the innocent Mr. G. P. Beaudin, calling myself an infamous liar and striking my mouth with the exclamation: 'You must close mouth! Why do you lie so?' I do not, for I know nothing against the character of Mr. G. P. Beaudin, but I am myself, besides, a genuine liar of the first class."

"A. C. DU PLESSIS."

How Models Make Pictures.

The artist gazed in rapture on "The Kiss," his latest picture. "Do you grasp," he said, "the passionate grace of the girl's attitude, the warmth and the power wherewith her tense white arms draw the young man closer, ever closer? Well, I got that idea from my model, a shopgirl.

"But for my model's suggestion I'd have put the girl in a stiff, cold pose, and the picture would never have been the masterpiece it is. But my model pointed out to me the abandon wherewith a girl, whether of high or low station, gives herself up to a kiss' charm. She illustrated the thing, aided by a male model, a young medical student. Yes, she made my picture.

"The fact is, models make, with their valuable hints and suggestions, lots of pictures. There's many a masterpiece whose merit is due to the splendid pose that the model originated for the principal figure."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Burma's Popular Sports.

A form of speculation very popular in Burma is bull racing. A certain native sportsman is the owner of one of these bulls, for which he has refused an offer of 10,000 rupees. It has won several races and is looked after and as carefully tended as a Derby favorite. The owner values it at 25,000 rupees, and it is said, it brings him an annual income of from 12,000 to 15,000 rupees. It is carefully guarded by four men lest it may be got at and "doctored."

Burmans also patronize boxing eagerly, but the art can scarcely be practiced according to Queensberry rules, for we are told by a provincial reporter that he has observed that "even the best boxers strike out with their eyes tightly shut, and if they do hit each other it is more by chance than anything else."—Calcutta Statesman.

The Wrong Lady.

Some young idlers had been enjoying the fun of hailing passing shopgirls with rather doubtful compliments, and from some of the answers returned it was evident that not all of those addressed were taking things kindly. "I was going too far, spoke up. 'Look at her now, fellows,' he added, 'youse might think youse is wise guys an' all that, but just keep on an' the wrong lady'll come along, an' she'll break yer face, see?'—Argonaut.

Briefs of the County

Washington, Pa., Oct. 26.—As the result of eating poke root, Hazel French, the 2-year-old daughter of Stanton French, of East Waynesburg, died today. On Saturday the child, with companions, was playing house and pretending to cook. The poke root was served as radishes. The children became violently ill, but all were restored except Hazel.

Canonsburg Oct. 25.—Superintendent Johnson Bowers of the North Strabane Water company stated Saturday that there is from three and one-half to four feet of water in the company's reservoir, a greater amount than has been on hand for four weeks. The Linden creek, from which the water is pumped, is again running, a fair stream having flowed Friday, and was increased by the rain of Saturday morning. The pumps at the water plant were operated for three hours and 40 minutes Friday, the first time since early in the week. The pumps have a capacity of two and a quarter million gallons every 24 hours.

Washington, Oct. 25.—N. B. Naber, who is in jail charged with forgery, was taken before Justice E. N. Dunlap this morning to answer similar charges made by W. S. Guttery, of Franklin street, and Detective Cummins. The latter charges the defendant, on information received, with forging the name of J. Kaufman to a check drawn on the National Bank, of Claysville. The accused said that he wanted a hearing on both charges, and Justice Dunlap set the time for an investigation next Monday at the time that the other charges are to be inquired into.

That the State of Pennsylvania will be forced to take steps to suppress the annual flood devastation by artificial methods of controlling the flow of the rivers and streams, in addition to the natural process of reforestation, is the opinion of the State waters supply commission after investigations extending over the entire period since its organization in 1905.

The annual report of the commission, issued Saturday, deals not only with the matter of floods, but shows the great loss in immediate destruction of property and the disastrous waste of water, especially in the vicinity of Pittsburgh. It also shows what the commission has accomplished in stopping the gobbling of water rights for private speculation of hold-up purposes, and also checking the indiscriminate obstruction of water courses by dams and fills.

The report highly commends the work of reforestation now going on throughout Pennsylvania, and recommends that the matter of flood control be placed in the hands of a central body, with authority to put into operation a systematic campaign for the conservation of the water supplies.

Three Girls and a Bungalow.

Copyrighted, 1908, by Associated Literary Press.

The three girls—Florence, Molly and Edith—began talking up that bungalow in January, and long enough before the first April shower they had all their plans perfected. It was to be a unique and romantic summer outing. Florence's father owned a farm on the bay. A frame house had been erected for the tenant, and an old log house stood vacant in a romantic spot. It was, as Florence informed her two girl chums, a dear, lovely, sweet, just-too-nice-for-anything old log house. It would make such a bungalow as could not be found for twenty miles up and down the coast.

On the hill forty rods back of the log house was the new dwelling, occupied by Farmer Jones, his good, fat wife and his lean son Jacob. The girls would take their meals there and have no cooking or dishwashing to do. When they wanted to roast clams and potatoes they could haul a tub of the shore.

Just three girls and no crowds, no dressing for dinner, no keeping the hair curled; just three girls, boating, fishing and swimming in their hammocks and cantering over the dewy grass in the morning; no cards, no bouquiers, no flirtations; the fat Mrs. Jones for their cook, the lean Jacob to run errands, old Jones to drive into the village once a week after horse and baling powder and their mail—the very thought of it produced thrills.

Well, it all came about. They went down early in June to remain for two months. Word had been sent to Jones that they wished to rough it and that he must not remove any of the romance. He obeyed orders. He built three rude bunks, put in an old table and three chairs and furnished a lamp. There were a few pines of glass in the windows, and he did not add to the number; there were a few holes in the roof, and he did not cover them; there was half an acre of pigweeds around the house, and he did not mow them down. Mr. Jones was romantic himself and appreciated the sentiment in others.

The outing started off with "How charming!" "How ideal!" and "How very romantic!" Then the three girls got their heads together and took a solemn vow. It was that they would remain until the very last day of August and that in the interval they would not encourage any young man to address them—any young man except Jacob, from whom they learned that young men came that way at intervals to fish in the bay.

The bungalow was a success from the start. On the first night it rained, and the water dripped down through a dozen leaks; on the second night a cow came and put her head through one of the windows to see what strange cattle had arrived and taken possession; on the third an owl alighted on the roof-tree and uttered three whoops, and they were followed by three exclamations of "Murder!" "Police!" and "Help!"

On the fourth day Jacob appeared with a pike of butter-milk and some startling news. He had discovered a young man had gone into camp a short quarter of a mile away. He had with him a tent, a boat, plenty of provisions and cooking utensils. It looked as if he intended to stay right there all summer. Jacob had entered the young man's camp and asked him to please move two miles farther up or down. The young man had glared at him and kept on reading a volume of poetry. The news created intense excitement at once. An indignation meeting was at once called, and it was resolved "that the young man has got to go and that we wait upon him in a body and tell him so."

Jacob bravely offered his help, but it was declined. "The body" marched straight for the enemy's camp, each face wearing a look of determination. The enemy was sitting down smoking a pipe, but on their arrival he rose up and doffed his cap and stood at respectful attention. Miss Florence was spokesman, and after a slight shiver she announced:

"Sir, this is my father's property, and you are a trespasser. I have to request that you kindly go away."

"But it happens to be my property," replied the stranger, with a smile. "Your father's farm ends at the creek there."

"But—but we are three girls, sir." The young man bowed to the three in turn.

"And we have a bungalow and do not wish to be disturbed."

"I shall take great pleasure in not disturbing you."

"But can't you understand, sir, that we are on our vacation and don't want any men around?"

"Sorry, young ladies—extremely sorry—but I am on my vacation and don't want any females around. I will agree to keep my distance if you will keep yours. I have camped here for the past three years on account of this spring."

The delegation walked back to the bungalow without a word. Then the meeting was called to order again, and Miss Florence asked what further steps were deemed necessary to rid themselves of the presence of the impudent intruder.

"Why, if it's his land he has a right there, hasn't he?" ingeniously queried Molly.

"And I didn't expect to see such a good-looking young man," sighed Edith.

"Are you girls going to turn traitor?" demanded the chairman in indignation.

When Farmer Jones was appealed to he said he guessed the young man was within his rights. When young Jacob was told the result of the call at his camp he offered to go over and chuck the intruder into the bay and hold him there, but wiser counsel prevailed, and the bungalow once more settled down to peace and romance. Not for long, however.

After breakfast two mornings later Florence went down to the shore for a row to find the boat missing. The tide had floated it off during the night. As she stood there wondering about tides and skiffs and intruders the young man of the camp came rowing up in his own boat and towing the missing craft. He leaped ashore, raised his cap and drew the skirt upon the ends. Then he entered his own craft without a word and rowed away.

At dinner that evening Mrs. Jones proudly placed a dish of fried squirts on the table. The girls welcomed it. Florence had half finished her dinner when she remembered having seen the intruder with a gun on his shoulder in the edge of the woods that afternoon. She suddenly lost her appetite and whispered to the girl on either hand:

"You may bow your neck to the tyrant's yoke if you will, but as for me—never!"

"And such eyes and teeth!"

At the breakfast next morning there was excellent fish on the table—fish caught that morning, as Mrs. Jones proudly announced. The girls "plucked" but after five minutes Miss Florence refused further fish. It came a few like a flash that the impudent intruder must have furnished the supply. She looked at her chums in cold disdain, but Miss Molly clasped her hands and rolled her eyes.

"And how terrible it would have been had we driven him away from here," added Edith.

They were traitors to the cause, but their conduct only made Florence the firmer in her determination. Fate chose when to wind her own business and when to interfere with that of others. In this case she laid off for a couple of weeks. Miss Florence went out fishing by herself. She planned to be herself so as to snub the intruder if he came within ten rods of her.

It is useless to speculate on how a girl and a boat get upset on bay, lake or river. They do, and that's all there is about it. Florence was after the biggest crab of the century when she suddenly found herself sinking down to a watery grave. She didn't know when the intruder came rushing down in his skiff and leaped overboard to her rescue. She didn't know when she was carried ashore and up to the Joneses' house. When she did recover she heard sobs and sighs all around her, and as she tried to sit up she heard Molly exclaim:

"Oh, goody, goody! She will live! He has saved her life!"

"And if she doesn't marry him she's an ungrateful wretch," added Edith.

"Why, we've known for two whole days that he was a son of Senator Blake and one of the closest young men in the world."

Job Still Open.

The proprietor of a London restaurant advertised for a cook. The first to apply for the berth appeared to be in every way suitable. But before engaging him the restaurant keeper inquired if he could give him a tip for the 230 rate.

The cook's eyes brightened. He whispered a "dead end" and mentioned that he had 5 shillings on the horse himself. That was enough. The proprietor gave him a lecture on the evils of betting and showed him the door. As he went out he saw another man about to enter.

The man took the advice, was engaged and commenced his duties. Presently the proprietor rushed to the speaking tube and yelled to the new cook:

"Calf's head one."

Instantly the reply came:

"Did he, by George? What was second and third?"

The Chinese Waiter.

The chief glory of an average Chinese inn is the waiter. This indispensable functionary is the guardian of all your interests for the time being, and when you are not looking he dives into secrets and matters of your own that seem to amuse and enlighten him to your inconvenience and annoyance. Like his confreres in other and more enlightened countries, he hardly ever separates himself from the inevitable napkin, but his badge of waitership is a very practical article with him. With it in summer he mops his damp brow or bare shoulders, while in winter, wrapped about his head, it protects him from rain and wind. The Chinese waiter's napkin is put to all kinds of uses, besides those just mentioned. It is used as a dishcloth, a mop with which to wipe the floor, a cloth for cleaning and wiping down tables and a duster. But Chinese landlords are very reasonable in their charges, which is a measure compensating for the inconvenience of living in their inn.

OCEAN LINER'S CARGO.

Four Hundred Husky Longshoremen to Load One Ship.

Down on the wharf the rush was at its height. Under the sputtering bluish arc lights, amid endless clang and rumble, the produce of America came in. From the prairies, the mines and the mills, from the forests, the cotton plantations, tobacco fields, orchards and vineyards, from the oil fields and meat packing houses, from the grimy factories, large and small, ponderous engines of steel, harvesters, reapers, automobiles, tons of silver and yellow bricks of gold, bales of cotton and wool and bides and tobacco, meats, barrels of flour and boxes of fruit, hoghead of oil and casks of wine—tens of thousands of things and machines to make things—piled up on the wharf by the acre. And still all night the teams clattered in and the tugs pulled up with the barges, and from hundreds of miles away the trains were rushing hither, bringing more boxes and barrels and bags to be packed in at the last moment.

In gangs at every hatchway the men were trundling, heaving, straining, a rough crowd, cursing and joking at the hoarse shouts of the foremen, while from the darkness outside heavy black rope nets dropped down to gather them back up to the deck of the ship and then down into her hold. So all through the night and right up to the hour of sailing the rush went on, for the great ocean liner's work is worth hundreds of thousands of dollars a month. And the ship must sail on time.—Everybody's.

HUNTING WILD HORSES.

How Brumbies in New South Wales Are Trapped and Broken.

Hunting "brumbies," as the wild horses are called there, is a favorite sport in New South Wales. Districts like the Clarence and Stephens and Manning river watershed are still the home of numerous droves of brumbies, and hunting them is declared to be a very exhilarating pastime. The first step taken is to stake out a corral and make all secure except a narrow entrance, which can subsequently be gated. On either side of the entrance and projecting from it funnelwise a "booby fence" is prepared.

To the simple minded brumby it presumably looks like a stockade, and pieces of fluttering cotton make it look impregnable. When this is ready, the young bloods, well mounted, gallop out and round up the wild horses, driving them with shouts and much loud snapping of stock whips toward the mouth of the funnel.

In a group of brambles there is always a leader, and when once the hunters have got the leader heading for the corral they are pretty certain of the rest of the drove. The fluttering cotton rags of the sham fence are sufficient to deter the brumbies from breaking through the flimsy barriers, and in less time than it takes to tell the wild horses are safely corralled and the big gate shut on them.

Then they are left for four and twenty hours without food and water to reflect on the situation, and after that they can be broken in without much difficulty.—London Standard.

Hearn as a Creative Artist.

Hearn's creative faculty began where creation is commonly held to end, with the material given. Of the creative gift in the sense in which the phrase is applied to the poet he had not a particle. He was not a "babbler," but a shaper. Dr. Gould puts the matter bluntly when he says, "He had no original thing to say, for he was entirely without creative power and had always to borrow theme and plot." And again: "Clearly and patently it was a mind without creative ability, spring or the desire for it. It was a mind improvident by inheritance and by training, by poverty internal and external." The truth in these words becomes evident when one recalls the failure as fiction of every one of Hearn's attempts in this field and the fact that his greatest successes were won in re-creating the ideas of other men.—Forum.

Very Clever.

They tell a story in London of a certain peer who had never before shown the slightest interest in horse racing that he surprised a young man of his acquaintance by asking him apropos of nothing which horse had won the Derby. The young man told him. "That was very clever of him," replied the peer. "Was it the first time he tried it?" The young man stared, but said "Yes." "Then I call it very clever of him," replied the noble but incomplete sportsman. "To win the Derby the first time he tried for it."

Pleasant For the Lender.

"There," said Dubby, adding up the column of figures, "a total of $632. I guess that's all. Oh, no; there's $30 I forgot! Gee! I wish somebody would lend me $632. Can you do it, old man?"

A Holdup.

De Roads—Mister, I found the dorg your wife is advertisin' a reward of $5 fer. Mr. Jaw—You did, eh? De Roads—Yes, and if you don't gimme $10, I'll take it back to her. See?

Made His Mark.

"Well, young Dr. Slicer has made his mark already, hasn't he?" "Yes, but on his last case." "Great Scott! What did he do?" "Vaccinated him!"

THE CAUSE OF COLDS

Good Advice Regarding The Prevention Of Coughs And Colds.

If people would only properly fortify and strengthen their system, about 98 per cent of coughs, colds and pneumonia might be avoided. These troubles are simply the result of weakness, which produces a catarrhal condition of the mucous membrane, which is an internal skin of the body. When this skin is weakened, it becomes infected with germs which are carried through the system by the blood. These parasites attack and break these delicate tissues and set up a soreness which produce what is in reality an external croup.

We have a remedy which we honestly believe infallible and unsurpassable for the prevention and cure of coughs, colds and all catarrhal conditions. It is the prescription of a famous physician, who has an enviable reputation of 30 years of cures gained through the use of this medicine. We promise to either effect a cure in every case or make no charge for the medicine. We urge everybody in Charleroi who has need of such a medicine to try Rexall Muc-Tone.

It stands to reason that we could not afford to make this statement and give our own personal guarantee to this remedy if we were not absolutely positive that we could substantiate our claim in every particular, and we see no reason why anyone should hesitate to accept our offer and try it. We have two sizes of Rexall Muc-Tone. Prices 50c and $1.00. Sometimes a 50c bottle is sufficient for a cure. As a general thing, the most chronic case is secured with an average of three large bottles. Remember, the medicine will cost you nothing if you are not satisfied in every particular. John W. Magic 9s ALL OVER THE STORE—You wouldn't think we could find so many things to sell at 9 cents. Nine cents isn't the regular price of any of these articles, though most of them are 15c and 12c goods—lots of them 18c and 20c. We have reduced them to 9 cents just for this sale. The figure 9 has always been considered lucky, and it is such a small price to pay for most anything that we decided to tack it to all sorts of things you are apt to want right now. The 9s are scattered broadcast—you will find them everywhere perched jauntily on goods that never expected to greet you for much less than twice nine. Yes, come and see what 9 cents will do.

Making More Than a Living

Nearly every man who works steadily makes more than a living. During these slow times the men who have saved something appreciate what it is to have something laid away for a rainy day. A few cents a day soon counts up, and when savings are placed in a bank at a tidy interest the sum soon grows to proportions that make it a safeguard against want when work is not plentiful. Figure up how much more than a living you are making now, and place the difference in this bank. Four per cent. interest paid in savings department.
